<sup>finished</sup> My Paternal Grandfather <sup>Gen. Moore</sup>
<sup>matching</sup> passed on a wooden dinner table with <sup>6</sup> chairs to my father <sup>and</sup> his youngest
<sup>the table actually stayed with my paternal grandmother Kate since until she died</sup> son. My father will give it to his youngest <sup>the table is</sup> son, my brother Shaun. The table is very <sup>it is a link to my paternal</sup> important now because ~~both of my paternal~~
~~grandparents are dead~~ <sup>deceased</sup> grand parents deceased

I wish I could keep the table and the chairs because they are <sup>comfortable</sup> nice to sit on. The <sup>semi-circle</sup> round ends <sup>are perfect for my little arms</sup> rest fit my arms nice. About a

The ~~My~~ Wooden Treasure The Dinner Table ~~and~~ Draft

While in my grand parents <sup>dining</sup> ~~living~~ room, <sup>of their table</sup> the table was of course in their <sup>dining</sup> ~~living~~ room. It's hard to think of a family that would need more than six chairs, but the Moores did. There were <sup>eight</sup> ~~8~~ kids and two adults, that's <sup>ten</sup> ~~10~~ people, <sup>four</sup> ~~4~~ more than the table is fit to hold. My father's <sup>members</sup> ~~members~~ <sup>invitations</sup> ~~invitations~~ for dinner every Sunday after church.

The table is now in my <sup>dining</sup> ~~living~~ room. We eat at it every night, though we don't have home on Sunday. It is very important to me and my family, because it is a link to my <sup>deceased</sup> ~~deceased~~ relatives.
