

Architecture

Architects— people who design buildings

Architecture was an important achievement by the Ancient Egyptians. The Egyptians used Architecture to build pyramids for Pharaohs to live in for the afterlife.

I think that it is important because if they had never heard of architecture they probably never would of built the pyramids.

It is important to Modern Society because if they hadn't used architecture back then, we probably wouldn't use it today in modern society. They used simple machines to build these pyramids. Now they have more complex machines that were built because of the simple machines they used.
